1. Step One: Know about the Civil Services before opting for it

- 1.1 The Exam is for appointing to Indian Foreign Service, All India Services and 21 Central Services Group A and B.
- 1.2 Before deciding to fill the form, read the 'Civil Services Report 2010', on www.darpg.gov.in a copy of which is also placed in this folder.
- 1.3 In the Form, do not list out all the services given in the advertisement for the Exam. Select only five or ten and then list them in priority as per your preference.
- 1.4 For deciding your preference, access your strengths and weaknesses.
- 1.5 For example, if you are opting for Indian Police Service, or any of the UT Police Services, make sure that you have the stomach to cope with criminal activities of all hue and variety, 24 x 7.
- 1.6 As an IAS aspirant, know that about 200 out of 604 districts are currently under Left Wing Extremism. As such, for 200 IAS Probationers, the first posting could be in any of these.
- 1.7 As an officer of Indian Customs and Excise, one could be dealing with smugglers, and may have to cope with the narcotic mafia, in addition, to various agents deployed by large corporations.
- 1.8 As such, discuss your service choices with parents and other family members before opting for them.
- 1.9 For the services that you finally short list, visit the website of the nodal ministries, to know more about the range of work. Then reconfirm your priority services. The nodal ministry is indicated against each service in the list given below. Easiest way to the websites is to access them through www.indiaportal.gov.in list of government websites

2. Know about the Exam structure

The CS Examination is for filling vacancies in 24 Civil Services in Government of India. The cut off percent marks varies from year to year depending on the number of vacancies announced for a given examination.

- 2.2 For example, for CSE 2017, the total number of vacancies is 980. To qualify the Preliminary Exam, one needs minimum 33% marks in Paper 2. The number of candidates declared clear for attempting the Main Exam will be 12 to 13 times the number of vacancies (See UPSC Notification dated 22.02.2017)
- 2.3 Thereafter, in the Main Examination, a candidate has to attempt to achieve the highest possible marks, for the two qualifying papers of a language of choice and English, plus the Five Compulsory Papers of Essay and General Studies 1 to 5, plus two Optional Paper that have Paper 1 and 2 each.

As such, the total number of papers for Main Exam is Qualifying 2 + Compulsory 5 + 2 Optional papers with 2 papers each = 11 paper to be prepared for and attempted.

- 2.4 For qualifying for the Interview, a candidate has to be in the first 2500 to 3000 thousand candidates, because the number of candidates called for interview are two or three times the number of vacancies.
- 2.5 After Interview, only 1 out of 3 candidates gets selected for inclusion in the final list. The top 980 candidates will be finally selected for filling the vacancies. This also implies that the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful candidate is of one mark only, as the 'cut off' point varies from year to year depending on the varying number of vacancies to be filled.

3. Prepare yourself mentally for failure in the first attempt:

- 3.1The uncertainty in this very tough competition is very high. Therefore, at least the first attempt should be made with an open mind and with a view to 'test the waters'. This will eliminate the depression that sets in due to frustration. Failure after all the hard work can often be overwhelming.
- 3.2 The Main Exam tests not only the learning and knowledge but also the candidate's capacity to sustain under physical and mental pressure. The Exam is held for 5 to 6 continuous days, with two papers to be answered every day.
- 3.3 Papers in the Main exam are all essay type, and the candidates ability to write 11 papers of three hours each, in 5 to 6 days, certainly tests their physical capacity.
